Trails End History...

Where you are now used to be a part of the McCloskey Farm. There were many farms and sawmills in this area.

In 1973, Don Dillon constructed a building in this spot, complete with red and white striped wall paper, and named it the Lori-Lisa, an ice cream parlor.

From 1974 through 1978 Vince DiStefano ran his pizza shop here. After Vince, Don Reese, purchased Trails End.

Then a few years later a fire gutted the Trails End. The new and improved Trails End was built and sold to the Hoovers.

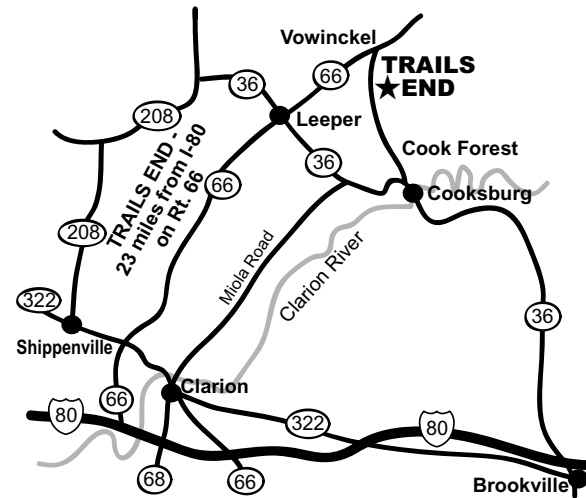

Between 1988 and 1998 George and Linda Keith owned and operated Trails End.

Today, the Trails End proprietors are two hometown girls, Susie Irwin and Missie McDonald. Together with their husbands, Rick and Mike, they strive to make Trails End a destination - not just a stop along the way. Enjoy your dinner and we hope to see you time and time again.
